Yo Seeb Jeon	2015 Korean UMC of SNJ (PL)	Drew University	Master of Divinity 5/2014
I see God's working in this new season. In its sunshine, breezes, buds of flowers, and shoots, I see God's creative works!
Jin Kook Kim	2014 Cedar Cliff: Haledon (PL); 2015 Grace: Wyckoff (FL)	Drew University	Master of Divinity 5/2012
I see God at work in people who do God's love and justice in their lives.
Wen-Ling Lai	2014 Walnut Valley: Blairstown (PL)	Drew University	Master of Divinity 12/2015
I have seen God's love in actions among human beings refusing God's love or ignoring the Call to love ALL. I have seen God's grace manifested among the last, the lost, and the least who are ignored or refused by the beloved of the Almighty.
Benjamin Lee	2014 Colonial and Summerfield: Oxford; 2015 Bridgewater (PL)	Drew University	Master of Divinity
The Spirit of God is at work in our world as new life is breathed into communities of faith so we might be equipped to breathe life into a world still longing to live. As churches become vulnerable enough to ask "who is missing from our fellowship?" we find strength to adapt and invite all God's people into grace-filled life.
Seunghyun Lee	2015 Union Grove and Pittsgrove (PL)	Drew University	Master of Divinity 5/2015
I would say I can see God at work where people embrace each other with love and where people are united as one body of Christ.
Gabrielle Martone	2014 Frankford Plains (PL); 2016 Broadway and Port Colden (FL)	Princeton Theological Seminary	Master of Divinity
I see God at work in our world in the relationships that we build with one another, with God and with the created world. As God breathes into our world, we are sent out to build relationships of love, justice, and of wholeness with all whom we meet; sharing the Good News with every breath, action and word.
Charles Perez	2009 First: Dover (PL); 2016 First: Dover (FL) and Morristown	Drew University	Master of Divinity
I see God in the potential of his people (unchurched/dechurched) to be called into the light; by the light that lives in us (the Church) because of Jesus Christ himself.

Amanda Rohrs-Dodge	2013 Asbury (PL); 2014 North Hunterdon (PL)	Drew University	Master of Divinity
I often see God at work in the world through the relationships we have with one another: between parent and child, pastor and parishioner, family and friends. Most recently I saw God at work as my congregation rallied behind a family in the church that experienced a traumatic loss; they provided not only spiritual and emotional support but also hands on help through meals, laundry, and making necessary renovations to the home, modeling their faith and discipleship with love.
Connie Squire	2015 Barryville and Dingman's Ferry (PL)	Drew University	Master of Divinity
I see God at work in the world through individuals of various cultures and religious views coming together to participate in peaceful demonstrations to bring awareness and change for all God's children.
Yoomi Yi	2014 Bergen Point: Bayonne (PL); 2015 UMC of Linden (PL)	Drew University	Master of Arts in Ministry 5/2015
I see God at work in and through people of God to bring the love and hope of God among the needy and marginalized neighbors in the world. I see God's people serving all around everywhere and everytime God sends them.
Myounghun Yun	2015 Asbury UMC Woodstown (PL)	Emory University Yale Divinity School	Master of Divinity 5/2007 Master of Sacred Theology 5/2009
I see God at work in the spaces where people praise and worship God, in the circumstances where people suffer and cry out to God for help, and in the places where people, as the hands and feet of God, reach out to others in need and do what Jesus did two thousand years ago.

Dawn Corlew	2011 Medford (FL); 2012-2015 Bergen Highlands and Park Ridge (FL); 2015-2017 Bergen Highlands (PE)	Eastern University	Master of Divinity 5/2006
I see God at work through the people of faith who serve others whether it is in visiting a shut-in, serving a meal to the homeless day laborer or hosting a neighborhood bible study.
Debra DeVos	2015 Trinity: Hackettstown and UMC of Rockaways; 2016 Trinity:Hackettstown and Ext. Ministries (PE)	Drew University	Master of Arts in Ministry 5/2014
I see God at work in those who have a passion to see systemic change happen in order for everyone to have abundant life. Those people who are willing to take risks in order to make life better for all of God's children.

Karline Dubuisson	2012 Chambers: Hamilton Twp; 2013 First: Riverside (PL); 2015 Spring Valley (PE)	Palmer Theological Seminary	Master of Divinity 5/2012
I see God in the extraordinary work of creation that is constantly revealing God's magnificence; other times I don't see God at work until I press in. However, when I do—I see God in moments set against the backdrop of pain, loss, or evil in the ordinary smile of a baby, unconditional love of a pet, joy of fellowship with friends and believers. God is always amidst all things.
John Inverso	2009-2015 New Sharon and Wenonah (PL); 2015 New Sharon, Barnsboro, Mt Zion, Wenonah (PE)	Palmer Theological Seminary	Master of Divinity 5/2009
I see God at work through the many congregations and individuals who are reaching out to immigrant, Muslim, and LGBTQ+ communities in humble love and service. In such a tense time in our nation, it inspires me to see that the love of Jesus knows no human-instituted bounds.
Yeol "Earl" Kim	2012-2014 First: Montclair (PL); 2015 Verona and First: Montclair (PE)	Boston University	Master of Divinity 5/2011
I see God at work in the hearts of those who choose love over control, cultivate hospitality in the land of hostility, walk the trail of hope through the wilderness, hum a cheerful tune of faith in the nights of uncertainty, huddle together with the oppressed against wind, midwife new beginnings while facing dead-ends, and rejoice all the time.
Todd Lattig	2012-2017 Harmony Hill (PE); 2014 Chaplain: United Methodist Homes of NJ	Drew University	Master of Divinity 8/2011
I see God at work in the changing times and in the church as we respond to the reality that we are no longer seen as the center of the community where people are expected to come to us, but are called and sent to the fringes of society where the least, the last and the lost are. God is at work in reclaiming the apostolic essence of the church so that the Good News of God's all-inclusive Kingdom is spread into the world where Christians are sent.
Ninabeth Metcalf	2012-2017 Knowlton (PL); 2015 Panther Valley Ecumenical (PE)	Drew University	Master of Divinity 5/2013
The sparkling eyes and the joyful "Oh, thank you so much!" of a woman who comes to pick up food from the Lord's Pantry and finds a book for her granddaughter, a pair of pants for her grandson, and a spring coat for herself in the Brownie troops "Community Closet", bears witness to the ways that God is at work in our world.
Sandra Stenstrom	2012-2015 Wayside (PL); 2015-2017 Emanuel: Oaklyn, and Embury: Collingswood (PE)	Drew University	Master of Divinity 5/2014
I see God at work in the world when love goes to the places where walls of separation have been constructed; knocking them down brick by brick and inviting people to share their stories. Through the sharing of stories, we create relationships that find a holy space to celebrate our commonalities and heal our differences, identifying how we can work together to create a vision of heaven on earth where all people are welcome to serve and be served through the mission of Jesus the Christ.

David Tillisch	2011-2013 Frankford Plains (PL); 2013-2014 Delaware Valley and Frankford Plains (PL); 2014 First:Blairstown (PE)	Drew University	Master of Divinity 5/2013
I see God at work in the world every time someone responds to God's grace and acts in a manner that draws us closer to the Kingdom of Heaven.
Heather Valosin	2014 Montville (PL); 2015 Montville and Mt Fern: Randolph (PE)	Drew University	Master of Divinity 5/2011
I see God at work in the world when suffering is alleviated through acts of love, for example, when crowds protected Muslim men as they prayed at airports earlier this year.
Catherine Williams	2014-2017 Princeton and Chambers: HamiltonTwp (PL)	Palmer Theological Seminary	Master of Divinity 5/2010
I see God at work through youthful seminary students with a passion for bringing worship and justice together in their preaching. And I also see God at work in our congregation through our teams of aging yet active volunteers, ministering with passion to the needs of our church's immigrant neighbors.
